The "settlement" is a joke, although not a funny one.

Microsoft was found guilty of abusing it's monopoly power and now you are allowing them to entrench themselves even more with this wholly inadequate method of "punishment."

Everyone who actually understands the workings of Microsoft and their products KNOWS how mediocre and downright dangerous their practices and products are.

They outright LIED to and tried to deceive a federal judge in the courtroom, to say nothing about what they do daily to the American public and corporations who, for whatever misguided reasons use their products and services.

Talk about contempt - repeated, deliberate, organized, blatant and conspiratorial contempt. And you roll over and offer your soft underbelly for Bill and company to scratch and say "nice doggy."

Shame on you!

Do your duty, scrap this "settlement," and instead punish them, to the FULLEST extent of the law.

Thank you.
